

In Towns About

Wichita.
From the Daily Courier.
State Game Inspector Culver was in the city initiating the new deputy, James Maxwell of Argentine, into the duties of his office. Mr. Maxwell is a married man but will not move his family here for some time at least.
Colonel Loomis and Colonel Manning were quarreling this morning as to who would be the mascot of the crowd on the train to Wichita. Colonel Manning claims to be a pugilist. As to how they came out we don't know.
T. H. Rogers has just returned from Joplin, Mo., where he, with others, organized a mining company called the "Hoo Hoo" Mining company, with a capital of $5,000. Mr. Rogers is first vice president. The company has mines at Tuckahoe, Mo.
This morning Under-Sheriff Rothrock arrested J. M. Hooker, C. V. Brooks, J. E. Hayland and Bert Woods, all of Burden, on a charge of disturbing the peace of one C. C. Collins of that place. These gentlemen are all prominent men of Burden and are highly respected citizens. The warrant was sworn out by Mr. Collins who claims that the men shot at a dog belonging to him and that in so doing some of the bullets glanced and penetrated the garments of his wife who seems to have been near by when the shooting occurred. They gave bond this morning in the sum of $100 and their case was set for hearing in Justice Webb's court on Wednesday, May 18, at 9 o'clock.
A large crowd went from here to Wichita this morning. Quite a number went yesterday and some Monday. Today is the big day on which the grand parade and other K. of P. doings come off. Among those who went up from here were A. B. French, Bob Farnsworth and daughter, Colonel C. C. Manning, Colonel Loomis, P. H. Conkright, H. P. Gott, Ed Byrnes, C. Roberts, W. C. Root, M. B. Kerr, Frank Johnson and others whose names we failed to get.

Hutchinson.
From the Daily News.
The crisis predicted in last night's News in the Bank of Hutchinson matter came promptly as advertised. Judge Simpson arrived from Newton at 6 o'clock. Assistant Attorney General Shelling came on the same train. They had a short conference with Mr. Breidenbach and then announced that the Bank of Hutchinson being insolvent a receiver would be appointed at once.
All the depositors who could be reached quickly were notified and they met at the court house at 9:30. There was a great difference of opinion as to a recommendation for a receiver. Judge Simpson told them that if they would agree he would name the man of their choice. Several names were considered and finally the depositors represented decided upon John M. Kinkel. Judge Simpson appointed Mr. Kinkel, making his bond at $50,000. He also included in the order that he should receive a salary of $125 a month. This was in accord with the wish of the depositors expressed before the receiver was named. Too often the proceeds of a bank in liquidation are wasted by large allowance for salary of the receiver. This is not to be the case in the matter of the Bank of Hutchinson.
The nominal assets of the Bank of Hutchinson amount to about $180,000. The men who have looked over the collateral, including local bankers and the bank commissioner, believe that about $37,000 of this is good. The liabilities amount to about $195,000. Twenty-eight thousand dollars of this is to the Metropolitan bank of Kansas City, which is practically unsecured and must take its medicine with the rest. The Metropolitan is also a stockholder to the amount of $15,000 and there are other liabilities of the Metropolitan to the creditors which will prove interesting factors. The Metropolitan is liable for $15,000 on its stock. There are other stockholders who are also good.

The Westfield (Ind.) News prints the following in regard to an old resident of that place: "Frank McAvoy, for many years in the employ of the L. N. and C. Ry. here, says: 'I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for ten years or longer—can never without it in my family. I consider it the best remedy of the kind manufactured. I take pleasure in recommending it.' It is a specific for all bowel disorders. For sale by druggists."

The young gentleman would annihilate a pair of postoffice scales, or a couple of them.

FORAKER OPENS UP

Heve Spain of liability for damages for destruction to American property.
Of the latter reports, he said, "I would not regard it as a serious loss. I have found in the state department piled up there claims amounting to many millions for destruction of American property in the rebellion, and in each and every instance the presentation to the Spanish government of such a claim has been forwarded by a London diplomatic correspondence winding up in every case without a single exception, with the fact, direct refusal to recognize such a claim. And it is a notorious fact that if Spain did recognize them she would be unable to pay them. In all seriousness, I had rather hold the obligations of the insurgents than of Spain."

It was time, Mr. Foraker said, in conclusion, that the United States ceased policing her shores in the interest of Spain. It was time to end this quasi-partnership in a brutal and hellish war and, for his part, he would not vote or act to continue this unholy alliance.

There were evidences of a demonstration in the galleries as Mr. Foraker closed, but these were quickly checked by the presiding officer.

HOAR WANTS FACTS.
Mr. Hoar replied to Mr. Foraker, contending that the senate should have authorized facts, set forth like a judicial finding of a court, in an official report.

He complained that Mr. Foraker wanted the senate to act on information which he was not at liberty to disclose. The practical thing was to propose mediation, and if that was rejected, to have the facts presented to the senate and take the action thereon.

Mr. Hoar said that what a self-respecting nation would decline, that while she retained Cuba she should make laws for that part of her kingdom without the dictation of the United States. That was not a declaration of mediation.

Twenty years ago Spain had said there might be circumstances under which she would accept mediation. And if the facts claimed by the senator from Ohio were true it must be to him that the golden rule arrived.

Mr. Hoar called attention to a statement in Secretary Olney's letter which Mr. Foraker had not read, that the war was conducted by the insurgents, not by Spain, and that the United States was not to be the plantations and striving to starve out the Spanish soldiers by destroying the plantations and business.

If it were true that insurgents were thus destroying the property of American citizens, it would be a violation of the rules of war that they were banished or punished by death, he asked, and add: "I would like a report from the committee on foreign relations on that point."

He did not know whether, if a Cuban, or an American citizen, were caught red-handed in such business, he should be put to death. Federal soldiers had been executed in the American rebellion after trial by a drum-head court martial for treason.

Even though Spain had refused to pay American claims, Mr. Hoar argued, it did not follow that she could not be compelled to pay them. England had once refused to pay claims for the capture of American ships, and the answer which had forced England to pay these claims would force Spain to pay.

Mr. Thurston, Nebraska, took the floor, intending to address the senate when the Cuban debate is resumed.

BILLS PASSED.
The senate passed bills as follows: Authorizing payment by the United States of state and county taxes on land held in severally by Indians; granting medals to the survivors of soldiers of the First United States army; and providing for the payment of non-commissioned officers of the army after July 1, 1895, as follows: Sergeant Major, quartermaster sergeant and first sergeant, $30 each; sergeant, $25 each; corporal, $20 each; private, $15 each; for a public building at Altona, Pa.; $50,000 for a Mammoth Hot Spring, Yellowstone Park; $50,000 for Evanston, Wyo.; $50,000 for California; authorizing two bridges over the Colorado river at or near St. Paul, Minn.; making Great Falls, Mont., a port of entry.

At 6 o'clock the senate adjourned.
